Chatting With Men on the Firing Line

The circulation man is looking for big returns from the men on the Firing Line on "Red Letter Day,"

This is the day Romanists are going to bombard the portoffice department with letters asking the department to exclude THE MENACE from the mails, and the day that all loyal MENACE supporters are going to mail us an extra list of sobscribers and address the envelopes containing the list with red ink.

The most effective resistance we can offer to this concerted effort of Homenists to kill THE MENACE will be an increased subscription list, and if every man on the Firing Line who loves the cause of liberty will get busy and mail us a list of subscribers on this particular date, in addition to his regular subscription effort, we will show for the two weeks following an enormous gain instead of a ons as we have been showing for the past several weeks.

Priest-Well Pat, tell me your sins. Pat-Oh Faether you will forgive me Priest-Yes, but tell me quick. Pat-Faether I sacked couple o' bar-

Priest-SSH! Pat, I'll pray for your sins, and forgive them this time. Pat-Tanks Faether, Tanks! (Pat i Priest-(hurriedly) But Pat, my fee-

Pat-Faether, I have no moneys now Priest and Sam Parker, negro, meeting on the street, converse thusly: Priest-(unhesitatingly) Then Pat, heart (mournfully.) Priest-Then I shall condemn you Pat-O Faether, Faether, Priest-No, no! That won't do,

Priest-"What church do you belong to, Sam?" Sam-"Ah nevah go to no church Priest-"Wouldn't you like to join

Sam-"No, boss, ah don't want to be no catholic-it's bad enough to

Priest (losing temper)-77*111-my church and become a good cat
